14.24 Record Retention

Adopted: November 2014
14.24 Record Retention

A schedule of record retention follows. Any discarding of records should follow this schedule. However, prior to discarding of records, the permission of the Managing Director and the Bookkeeper are required to ensure that they have no reason that an exception should be made to the policy. All discarded documents are to be shredded or sent to our recycling company, which has a confidentiality agreement with us.

For tax purposes, records should be maintained until the expiration of the statute of limitations. Generally, that period expires three years after the later of the due date of the return or the date filed. While there are a few exceptions to this rule, the three-year period normally should be adequate.

For non-tax purposes, records should be maintained only as long as they serve a business purpose or until all legal requirements are met. Unfortunately, there are not specific standards that will cover all situations. The following are some of the factors that should be considered:

- Federal, state, and local statutes and regulations
- Industry requirements or standards
- Potential claims or litigation
- Contract requirements

P  means records should be kept permanently

*  Retention period begins with settlement of claims, disposal of asset, termination of contract, etc.

  Some should be kept longer, e.g. checks for tax payments should be kept with the tax returns, checks for asset acquisitions should be kept with bill of sale, etc.

  Legal and important correspondence should be kept as long as the documents to which they relate.
